

Linden BARKS

APRIL 21, 1921

WHAT NEXT?

The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals held a meeting in the Biology laboratory Monday evening. Mr. Carp was there as the personal representative of the Fish Union. Mr. Jack Rabbit was there to put in a good word for the cotton-tails. Mr. Chicken arrived just as the meeting was broken up owing to the non-arrival of Moses, the human skeleton, who was unavoidably detained in Dr. Stumberg's anatomy class. Moses, because of his higher degree of development, physically as well as mentally, was unanimously elected president of the society.

Mr. Horse, who was carried in by members of the Lindenwood Biology class, was initiated into the society. This organization is one of the latest in the college and is growing rapidly in membership. Very lively discussions are held at every meeting on the evolution of animals. The members are not at all bashful and frequently come out of the closet to exhibit themselves before the college classes.

CHILDREN WANTED:

To play with the physical eds.

Gone are the days when you slumber undisturbed on Saturday morning. Just as you roll over for that last long sleep a Comanche warwhoop pierces your ears and you shudder as you wonder if you are living in the harmless now or the dangerous days of the pioneer. The sheep are separated from the goats and the girls play on one side and the boys on the other.

Now you never know the campus that last night was calm and peaceful. In the morning it is alive and swarming with pleasure-seeking youngsters. Maybe you look and long to be there again playing all the games you used to play. And maybe you slam the windows down and wish the Physical Education Department chose milder methods of recreation.

The coming generation of St. Charles certainly has the lung power!

You arise. Not even closed windows can drown those shouts. You stray slowly thru the corridors of Butler. Snip! Snip! From whence comes that sound? Ah---it comes from the gym. Some of the little children are cutting dolls from yellow paper.

Saturday morning belongs to the children. So Sophomores---hasten to breakfast Saturday morning---there shall be sleep for you on Sunday.

Just see what the Physical Education Department has gone and done! They visited every school in St. Charles and extended an invitation to come and play on Saturday mornings. The girls delegated to visit the convent got scared, but they stuck it out. If you read the St. Charles paper you saw an ad that asked the children of the city to come and play in our yard.

A basketball game at Sacred Heart Convent in St. Charles was recently refereed by Adeline Ayers. Then there is the excellent Athletic Association and the new track field.

Aren't we proud of our physical eds.

THE COMMERCIAL CLUB

The Commercial Club held a social meeting Monday afternoon, April 11, in the teachers' parlors. The members responded to roll call with a quotation of some business man. A most enjoyable program was rendered which consisted of a piano solo by Sarah Levine and a fascinating reading by Miriam Schwartz. Games were then played after which the club adjourned until the next meeting which was a very short one held at 5:30, April 18. Lois Vidler gave an interesting paper after which an informal discussion took place.

Thursday Assembly
Dr. George B. Mangold of St. Louis will speak at the regular Thursday Assembly, April 21. Dr. Mangold is head of the School of Sociology, of the University of Missouri, which is located in St. Louis.

The girls of the cooking classes went into St. Louis to examine various kitchen and dietetic departments last weekend. Miss Margaret Hill, head of the department supervised the girls.

They left Friday morning on the 8:30 car, going to the Busy Bee first. Mr. Steidley took them thru the kitchens and then gave each some candy.

The girls ate luncheon at the Busy Bee and then went to the Loose Wiles Biscuit Co. The manager took them thru the buildings and gave each a sample box of cookies. After this the girls visited the Kitzinger Barnes Hospital, and later went to the Statler for dinner.

After attending the Orpheum that evening, they returned to their rooms at the Claridge.

Saturday morning after breakfast in the Claridge cafeteria, they went to the stock yards in East St. Louis. Here they visited the Seift Packing houses. After visiting all the buildings they were entertained at a luncheon, receiving Ever-Sharp pencils as favors.

Next they were taken for a truck ride to the Pevely Dairies, where each was presented with a pint of milk to drink.

Then came the final glorious conclusion---The girls attended "Irene" and if all reports are true, they had one glorious time. They returned to Lindenwood Saturday night.
