

Linden Bark S

"Ham, Ram, Roast-beef," rolled off the tongue of Buzz as she might have been, and Dr. Roemer shouted "Apple pie!!" in desperation and self-defense.

It breaks our heart to report the disorderly conduct of the guests at our boarding house last Thursday. We would never have believed that such noise was possible before midnight and a number of us present seemed to be struggling for the prize in lateness.

Billie Ayers and Puss Reeder sailed down the muddy S. E. in their gondola, catching fish between strokes. They landed miraculously at the proper destination in spite of the fact that they were rowing in opposite directions. They steered toward Motley's Point where Puss fell out, Ayers didn't stop to fish her out, for Guy Cleveland Motley is one of those people who don't let little boys play on this side of the fence.

In fact Guy Cleveland Motley allowed few transgressors on his cellar-door, only the wiles of the lovely Misses Allison, S Swaim and Asbury persuading him to lay off of the knife, his chief implement of warfare.

The student president, Miss Child, complained of a headache the next day--no wonder, for all through dinner she was forced to arise and go forth to maintain peace and order. Those receiving severest reprimands were Guy C. Motley, Misses Swaim, Titzell, Asbury and Mulligen, and we understand that Dr. Roemer himself got a call-down.

A really sad accident occurred when Miss Page Wright, one of the younger set, lost her poise and a skate, and sat down on the middle of the floor. Falling from such an altitude, serious results were feared, but Miss Wright is at present doing as well as could be expected. Mr. Daily reports that shocks were felt around Sibley Cottage at the hour of the accident.

A good time was had by all except Linn, who probably isn't used to Lunatic Asylums and other violent things.

The Unusual

"Who?----*--?" Now shut up, we know just what you are going to say. Hasn't that been the only question we have heard outside of class ever since Monday? Did you suppose our 300th of the lot would have "Mrs." on the address? Bob will be here--yes, if he doesn't have an important business engagement with the other girl; and Dick--if he doesn't have a little game the night before; and we know of several others who will be here if-----well, the campus will be all lit up anyway. There are some things we're sure of and that is 999 arch lights scattered around the campus and the 220 night watchmen who will sleuth around like a bunch of plain clothes men. So take heart, you whose dream has failed to materialize and vamp a night watchman, and we assure you there will be an ample assortment from which you may choose.

May Day Guests!!!

Tickets can be secured from Miss Hostetter now by those who expect to have guests in the dining room for May Day. No provisions have been made to serve the guests at noon but a buffet luncheon will be served in the dining room after the program in the afternoon.

Y.W. C. A. Conference.

The Y.W. C. A. of Lindenwood sent the four members of its cabinet to a cabinet training conference at the Y. W. camp "Friloha", which is located near Kirkwood, Missouri. Lindenwood, Stephens, Christian Hardin, Central, Culver Stockton Cotteey, Washington University and Central Wesleyan were the colleges who sent representatives.

There were several open discussion meetings. The Lindenwood girls, proud of their Y.W. and the things it had accomplished this year were eager to talk. When the girls from the other schools heard about our Quaker dinner, our Jazz night and our lovely Y.W. House they listened and took notes in a very enthusiastic manner. The girls came back with new ideas and plans to make next years activities more successful and beneficial than they have ever been.

Miss Dorothy Dunn and Loula Franklin, former graduates of Lindenwood, received their degrees in Journalism last week at the University of Missouri.

Professor Ankeney will deliver his lecture on "The Social Values of an Art Education" in the college chapel, Friday evening May sixth.

The regular meeting of the Euthentics Club was held Tuesday afternoon at four thirty in the parlors of Jubilee. After the business meeting a very amusing game was played and delicious refreshments were served.

Orpheum Circuit!!!!!!!

An Orpheum Circuit under the direction of Miss Sykes will be given at the Opera House in Saint Charles, May 27th, at 8:30 P.M. The town people will be invited and the balcony will be reserved for the Lindenwood girls. The tickets will be fifty cents and the proceeds will go to the Y.W.C.A. to send representatives to the summer conference at Estes Park.

Dr Tainter's lecture on Plastic surgery, inspite of the gruesome pictures was delightfully instructive. It is such men as Dr. Tainter that are bringing science home to the individual and we should feel proud that he was kind enough to give us a few hours of his valuable time.

May Day Play

King Rene's Daughter.

The characters as they appear:

- Bertrand ----- Adeline Hodgson
- Sir Almerik ----- Edith Tedford
- Martha ----- Marguerite Ehlers
- Count Triston ----- Dorothy Weber
- Sir Geoffry ----- Edith Dockstader
- Iolanthe ----- Ernest Embry
- King Rene ----- Merla Goldsmith
- Ebn Jahia ----- Fern Estes

The scene is laid in France in a part of King Rene's Castle. It is a garden scene. King Rene's daughter, blind since early childhood through an accident, has been engaged to Count Triston since the two were infants. Since Count Triston has become a man he rebels against the forced marriage and becomes a troubadour. By chance in his wanderings he enters the garden of King Rene's castle and upon seeing Iolanthe, falls in love with his intended bride and even after learning her identity and of her blindness desires her for his wife.

An interesting prologue is being worked up for the play - the acting is splendid and act develops rapidly. Don't miss but your ticket now.

A style show will be given by the Etiquette class Thursday afternoon from 4:30 to 6:00 in Butler Parlors. Come and learn how to dress!

The entire faculty body will be entertained to a luncheon upon May 14th, cooked and served by all the classes in the Domestic Science Department. The House Furnishing Class will do the decorating.
