

From the Editor

Creating the second issue of The Lindenwood Review has been, for me, a gift—a gift to find these moving stories and poems and essays; a gift to work with a brilliant group of MFA students; a gift to feel such dedication and support from our University. And so I thank the many people who made this gift possible:

Dr. James D. Evans, President of Lindenwood University, and Vice Presidents Dr. Richard Boyle and Dr. Jann Weitzel, for embracing our literary journal and for leading this University in such a positive, dynamic way.

Daniel Kemper, Dean of the Lindenwood College for Individualized Education, the home to our MFA in Writing Program, for his tireless and selfless support of this journal and our program.

Julie Beard, Eve Jones, Patricia Feeney, Mary Caldwell, and Tom Gibbons for the helpful editorial work they provided.

The talented, hard-working editorial assistants—including Managing Editor Elizabeth Zerkel—for spending twelve weeks immersed in the creation of this journal.

Finally, I thank the writers who allowed us to read their work, to see the world through their eyes. It was a pleasure and a privilege. It was a gift.
