The Journal of International and Global Studies is published for the Center for International and Global Studies by the Lindenwood University Press. Submissions are invited that address contemporary globalization issues. In particular, the Journal seeks high-quality, original work that is based on both theory and practice. We encourage submissions from all fields, but pay particular attention to anthropology, education, communications, geography, history, international relations, international management, political science, religion, and sociology.

The editorial board prefers essay manuscripts between 5,000 and 8,000 words oriented toward a readership composed of multi-disciplinary scholars, but written to be accessible to non-specialists. Essays are not accepted from pre-doctoral students.

Materials should be fully documented and have enduring value. Analyses of current affairs that may quickly fall out of date, and pieces containing policy prescriptions, are rarely accepted.

Materials submitted to the JI&GS are judged on the following criteria: (1) use of a theoretical or conceptual framework, (2) acknowledgment of relevant literature, (3) originality in analysis, (4) appropriateness of methodological approach, (5) contribution to the advancement of knowledge, (6) use of a global perspective, and (7) clarity of expression.

Materials must be submitted four months prior to the publication date. Please see the Center’s website for exact dates. See the following site for details and information for contributors. http://www.lindenwood.edu/academics/beyond-the-classroom/publications/journal-ofinternational-global-studies/for-authors/ Material appearing in the Journal of International and Global Studies does not necessarily represent the views of the editors or of the publisher, and responsibility for opinions expressed and the accuracy of facts published in articles rests solely with the individual authors.

Editorial correspondence, requests for permission to reprint articles, and contributions should be directed to: The Editor Journal of International and Global Studies c/o Center for International and Global Studies Lindenwood University 209 S. Kingshighway St. Charles, MO 63301

The Journal of International and Global Studies is published on-line two times a year, December and June. In order to facilitate research and scholarship, subscriptions are free to the global community.
