We are committed to creating a connected community, sharing common attitudes, interests, and goals supporting personal and professional growth.

LETTER FROM THE PRESIDENT

This has been an astounding year at Lindenwood University. On these pages, you will see some of our most notable happenings and accomplishments.

Most recently, we completed a long and comprehensive process to create a new strategic plan for the university that will help guide us into the future of this great institution, and we completed our recent accreditation review by the site team from the Higher Learning Commission. Both were very involved processes that entailed personnel commitments across our entire campus community. I'm proud of everyone who contributed to both efforts.

The most visible development of the year was the completion and opening of our new Library and Academic Resources Center on the St. Charles campus. It was under construction for more than two years, and its opening was celebrated appropriately.

We've added some new degree options for our students in the in-demand fields of digital content strategy, game design, paramedicine, and many others to prepare our students for the employment opportunities of the future.

Across the street from the St. Charles campus, University Commons continues to expand; we saw openings of several businesses, as well as the new U.S. Post Office on land donated by the university. As with the entire University Commons development, that new facility was the culmination of years of effort and teamwork by the university and its partners in the community.

Those who attended our commencement ceremonies this year saw something new—a ceremony designed to celebrate the journey of our students toward graduation. Meanwhile, on our Belleville campus, we welcomed a new athletic director and head football coach and ushered in major improvements to our athletic facilities there.

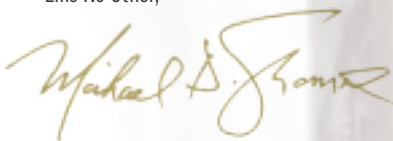

We made major improvements to our technology infrastructure on both campuses, providing for an improved experience for our students, as well as for the increasing technical demands of our academic programs.

Finally, we are proud of our students, who showcased their academic accomplishments all over the country and the world, as well as athletically with national team championships and truly impressive individual accomplishments like Nicole Hensley's NCAA top-10 award.

To honor our many donors, the second half of this book contains our Donor Report, detailing the generosity and support of everyone who helps this university with their gifts. This is one of the ways we say “thank you.”

It has, indeed, been a great year. Of course, we are already looking forward to the next one.

“Like No Other,”

Michael D. Shonrock

NEW LIBRARY OPENS WITH FANFARE

Lindenwood University's 100,000-square-foot Library and Academic Resources Center (LARC) is in full use, and has quickly become a campus destination for study, relaxation, and recreation. The building is known for its unique and programmable glass that resembles the branches of the beautiful trees on Lindenwood's campus.

and space and technology and people that inspire educational creativity.*

Dean of Library Services

The $24 million facility made its official debut to the campus community amid quite a bit of fanfare Sept. 16 on Family Day. The marching band played, cheerleaders greeted guests, and the ribbon-cutting ceremony featured President Michael Shonrock and members of Lindenwood's Student Government.

A sneak peek event for donors on August 24 drew significant attention as well, largely due to a ceremonial Book Brigade earlier in the day, a human chain of students, faculty, staff, and alumni passing books from the old Butler Library (1929) to the new LARC. About 400 people took part in the event.

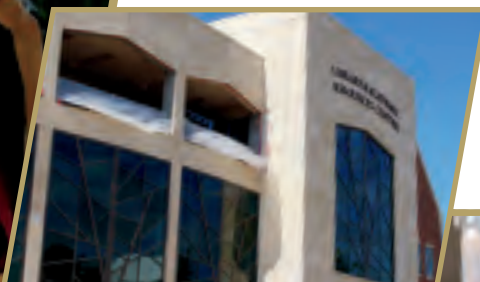

Lindenwood broke ground on the three-story structure in the spring of 2015. In addition to providing a more spacious and modern library, the building pulls together many of the university's student services, including the Writing Center, English as a Second Language, Lindenwood Online, Veteran Services, Student and Academic Support Services, and others.

Not only does LARC house traditional and electronic book stacks and the Mary Ambler Archives, it offers virtual reality equipment, a multimedia area with individual editing suites, an 80-seat theater, and a variety of spaces designed for student collaboration. Of course, one of the building's most utilized spaces is the full-service Starbucks coffee shop.

"I am asked a lot if in the digital age libraries are really relevant," said Liz MacDonald, dean of library services. "Libraries create access to information and resources and space and technology and people that inspire educational creativity. That results in something tangible and usable that represents the innovation and potential of the diverse communities Lindenwood serves. That is truly wonderful."

Student Government President Nick Stone thanked President Shonrock and the Board of Trustees for "such a beautiful building that makes total sense." Stone also remarked that the students were grateful for the hard work of the faculty and staff, and he thanked his fellow students: "We make this campus 'like no other.'"

COMMENCEMENT TAKES ON A NEW LOOK AND FEEL

The Lindenwood graduates and their families who attended the Commencement ceremonies on May 5 and 6 at the St. Charles Family Arena experienced something different from previous ceremonies. With changes to stage pieces, lighting, music, and the script, the revamped ceremony created a better sense of flow and placed more focus on the students as they reached the academic finish lines.

Emily Jones and Stu Hollis, faculty members of the Theatre Department, were the lead designers of the changes, which were requested by Lindenwood System President Michael Shonrock to tell, through the ceremony, the school's story and the students' story.

Jones said the first meetings on the ceremony occurred in January with most of the stage work starting in March. Hollis designed the stage pieces, giving them a theatrical feel. Behind the traditional school flags was a multi-piece backdrop depicting the university's historic Alumnae Gate on Kingshighway. The stage was lit with special lighting to focus attention there, and a suspended 30-by-17-foot video screen told the visual story of the ceremony through multimedia.

"Families will be able to see their students very prominently as they walk across the stage to get their diplomas," Jones said. "We took the university's brand, 'Like No Other,' and applied it to the ceremony as a celebration that still respects the academic traditions of commencement."

The video screen will play prerecorded music, including a performance by Lindenwood's premier a capella group, Voices Only. The script has been streamlined and focuses on the awarding of the degrees. Jones said the project included the combined efforts of many departments, including Academic Services, Theatre, Music, and LUTV.

"What I hope is that the visual changes to Commencement will support the longstanding traditions and heritage of Lindenwood University, speak to the present, and bring into focus the accomplishments of each individual graduate as they cross the stage and receive their degree," Jones said.

More than 1,300 undergraduate and graduate students from Lindenwood University walked across the stage at the May Commencement exercises. There was a capacity crowd at Saturday evening's ceremony for undergraduates as 851 students walked across the stage. More than 450 graduate students participated on Friday evening.

NEW DEGREE PROGRAMS ADDED FOR 2017-18

LINDENWOOD UNIVERSITY LAUNCHED A SLATE OF NEW DEGREE PROGRAMS THIS YEAR in the School of Arts, Media, and Communications and School of Health Sciences.

THESE PROGRAMS NOT ONLY LEAD TO EXCITING AND GROWING CAREER PATHS BUT ALSO PROVIDE STUDENTS WITH CONVENIENT AND FLEXIBLE COMPLETION PATHS.

DR. JOE ALSOBROOK Dean of the School of Arts, Media, and Communications

Lindenwood now offers a Bachelor of Science, minor, certificate, and Master of Science in digital content strategy, a field Communications Professor Andrew Smith says is poised for enormous growth.

"Digital content strategist is a job that did not exist 10 years ago," Smith said. "More and more companies are now figuring out they need people who understand digital media to go with their more traditional marketing and public relations personnel."

A new Bachelor of Arts in game design is designed to prepare students for work in a game studio environment. Professor Jeremiah Ratican said the program will focus on game art, game design, and quality assurance. Students will have the opportunity to work with the latest equipment, including virtual reality devices, in classroom spaces specifically configured for game design.

"We will cover game testing, rapid and paper prototyping, level design, and character design, and we will use various game engines," Ratican said.

Lindenwood also added master's degrees in fashion business and entrepreneurship and journalism, for which bachelor's degrees were already offered.

"The School of Arts, Media, and Communications is excited to offer new degree programs that support the talents, interests, and future of our students," said Dr. Joe Alsobrook, dean of the School of Arts Media, and Communications. "These programs not only lead to exciting and growing career paths but also provide students with convenient and flexible completion paths."

A bachelor's in therapeutic recreation has also been added in the School of Health Sciences, plus a Bachelor of Science in Paramedicine (BSP). The Department of Paramedicine is led by Professor Nick Miller, a respected professional in the field of paramedic education and training.

Miller said that there are two tracks students can take within the program: Traditional, for students without any previous paramedic education, and Licensed Paramedic, which allows current paramedics to continue their education at the baccalaureate level.

"The BSP program is more than just a paramedic certification program," Miller said. "It is an integrated bachelor's degree that is designed to develop critically thinking paramedics that can perform as advanced clinicians and practitioners. It also provides students with marketable expertise, and the foundational education necessary to advance throughout their careers."

TECH TOOLS ADDED IN HOUSING, CAREER SERVICES

NEW PRODUCTS JOIN LIST OF ONLINE RESOURCES

Handshake and StarRez were introduced in the spring 2017 semester to join the slew of online resources available to students.

StarRez is an industry-leading and comprehensive student housing solution that includes online housing applications, online roommate and room self-selection, roommate matching, social media outlets, and much more.

“StarRez is a great solution to our current operational needs,” said Dr. Terry Russell, director of residential life in St. Charles. “It allows us to better serve our students and their housing needs. The diversity of the program gives students the ability to select their desired housing and bring in roommates of their choice.”

Handshake is a web-based career management system that allows the Career Center to provide support to students and alumni 24 hours a day, seven days a week. Currently, more than 3.5 million students and alumni from more than 170 colleges and universities are using the system to connect with more than 120,000 employers, 50 percent of which are Fortune 500 companies.

Career Center Director Dana Wehrli said the Career Center has grown in recent years to better assist students and alumni and Handshake is yet another resource. With Handshake, students and alumni are able to apply for jobs and internships, register for career fairs, and stay up to date on the latest trends in career planning.

“I firmly believe that Lindenwood produces top-notch performers who are ready to make an immediate contribution to the world of work,” Wehrli said. “The transition to Handshake has leveled the playing field for our students and alumni, allowing them to connect with the same employers that recruit at schools like Carnegie Mellon, Princeton, Stanford, and UC Berkeley.”

BELLEVILLE SPORTS PROGRAMS GET NEW LEADERSHIP

Although nothing earned is easy, we're going to build this program one day at a time, holding true to our core values.

RYAN KAISER

Lindenwood Belleville athletic director

Lindenwood University-Belleville saw two big changes in its sports department during the 2016-17 academic year.

In August 2016, Ryan Kaiser was introduced as Lindenwood Belleville's new athletic director. Five months later, in January, Kevin Turco was hired to lead the Lynx football team in a new direction.

"We are so pleased to welcome a leader with Ryan's experience, vision, and commitment to our athletics department," Lindenwood Belleville Campus President Dr. Brett Barger said of Kaiser's hire. "We performed a national search to find the right person to build on the considerable success of our athletics programs and take us to an even higher level. We are confident that Ryan Kaiser is that person."

Kaiser, in turn, expressed excitement about the addition of Turco to the university.

"Kevin is a tireless worker and our student-athletes are going to be held accountable," Kaiser said. "He is going to celebrate accomplishments while building better student-athletes."

Before joining Lindenwood Belleville, Kaiser was the associate director of athletics for internal operations at Northwest Oklahoma State University, where he worked since 2012. In that role, he led the transition from NAIA classification to NCAA Division II, among an array of other responsibilities. From 2005 to 2012, he worked as associate director of athletics and director of athletics at Newberry College and Warner Pacific College.

"My wife Corie and twin sons Carson and Caden are ecstatic to move to an area that has the metropolis feel but is located in a smaller community," Kaiser said of his move to Belleville. "Lindenwood Belleville has the opportunity with hard work and dedication to build upon the many tradition successes already achieved by this fairly new institution."

Turco is a Troy, Ohio, native. He comes to Lindenwood Belleville with nearly two decades of coaching experience, most recently as the assistant head coach and offensive line coach at Urbana University, where he worked since 2015.

Prior to starting at Urbana, Turco spent four seasons at Northwestern Oklahoma State University in a variety of coaching positions. In 2014, Turco was named the offensive coordinator and then interim head coach. He played an integral part in Northwestern Oklahoma State's transition from NAIA to NCAA Division II. Turco also coached at Newberry College.

"I'm honored and humbled to be named the next head football coach at Lindenwood University-Belleville," said Turco. "Although nothing earned is easy, we're going to build this program one day at a time, holding true to our core values."

IMPROVEMENTS TO LYNX ARENA, SOCCER AND RUGBY FIELD HELP ATTRACT STUDENTS

A little bit of money and a lot of elbow grease helped spruce up Lindenwood University-Belleville's athletic fields over the summer.

"We feel like it really made a huge difference," said Athletic Director Ryan Kaiser. "There are three checkboxes when student-athletes are trying to decide where they're going to go. They want to know where they're going to eat, where they're going to sleep, and where they're going to train and play. If they feel comfortable in those three areas, you've got a good chance to get them."

Improvement projects included the following:

- Rebranding and resurfacing the basketball and volleyball floor in the Lynx Arena
- Grading and sodding the soccer and rugby field
- Adding a second campus weight room in the Lynx Arena auxiliary gym
- Painting and epoxying the floor in the basement office and locker room area of the Lynx Arena

The total cost of the four projects was about $100,000.

"Redoing the soccer and rugby field was the project that made me the most nervous," Kaiser said of the project that turned the natural turf field into a barren landscape for several weeks. "But I think it turned out the best, and now I'm really glad that we did it."

After the grass started to grow, the field was as smooth and uniformly covered as an artificial turf playing surface.

"To get the downstairs office suite and offices of the Lynx Arena fixed up, we basically held a painting party all summer," Kaiser said.

"Coaches, members of the athletic training staff, and anyone else we could convince to help us painted the whole thing—and it looks worlds better than it did before."

When the walls and floor were done, new furniture where student-athletes can rest or study was added, along with art featuring current and former Lindenwood Belleville athletes, quotes from pro players, and Lynx logos.

"It's definitely helped with recruiting," said Kaiser of the facilities. "As much as we hate it to be an arms race, we now have facilities that are inviting and competitive with the ones offered by the schools we play against."

DONATION SECURES NEW HOME FOR PREMIER SPEAKER SERIES AT LINDENWOOD

Earlier this spring, the Hammond Institute for Free Enterprise, located in the Plaster School of Business & Entrepreneurship at Lindenwood University, received a sizeable donation from the Discussion Club, St. Louis' premier interactive speaker series.

According to Howard Wall, director of the Hammond Institute, the Discussion Club's leadership decided after 62 years to keep the legacy of its founder, Henry F. Langenberg, alive and well under the auspices of the Hammond Institute.

Dr. William Rogers, a research fellow in the Hammond Institute's Center for Economics and the Environment and associate professor of economics at Lindenwood, previously served as president of the Discussion Club. "Past speakers included Nobel laureates, leading authors, public policy makers, political leaders, and scientists," Rogers said. "Not all of the speakers at our events were famous, of course, but all of the individuals presenting were accomplished speakers and leaders in their respective fields of interest. We intend to continue this spirited focus on public debate and discussion here in the Hammond Institute under the broad subject umbrella of political economy."

Langenberg, who served as longtime president of the Discussion Club since the group's inception in 1955, placed a strong emphasis on advancing an understanding of the importance of liberty in all facets of life, especially with area youth.

"This is a tradition we're pleased to see the Hammond Institute continue on our behalf," said Harry Langenberg (Henry's son). "We look forward to the continued line-up of speakers who will further discuss the moral, cultural, and institutional foundations of a free market society, along with debates surrounding timely, social, political, and economic issues."

The H. F. Langenberg Memorial Speaker Series began in the fall of this year with the first event held on October 11, featuring Dr. Michael Munger, an economist from Duke University. Future evening sessions will be held at the Missouri Athletic Club's West Clubhouse, 1777 Des Peres Road in St. Louis. Two or more such events will be held each year.

For more information about the Hammond Institute for Free Enterprise and upcoming events associated with the H.F. Langenberg Memorial Speaker Series, please visit online at www.Hammond.Institute.

UNIVERSITY COMMONS DEVELOPMENT

ROUNDING INTO SHAPE

Located on property owned by Lindenwood, University Commons is a mixed-use project, developed by DESCO Development and the university, that is playing an important role in the city and county's growth trends.

It is home to well-known retailers like Schnuck's, GNC, CVS Pharmacy, Great Clips, AT&T, Matress Direct, and Crown Optical. The development also has food choices like MOD Pizza, Raising Cane's, Potbelly Sandwich Shop, and, most recently, Arby's.

Lindenwood donated 3.83 acres of land for the development of a new United States Post Office at the site. Ground breaking for the post office was held in October 2015, and the ribbon was cut Aug. 1, 2016, with Lindenwood University System President Michael Shonrock and St. Charles Mayor Sally Faith among those who handled the scissors.

A coalition of the U.S. Postal Service, SSM Health, Lindenwood University, the city of St. Charles, DESCO Development, and St. Charles County teamed together to bring the project to fruition.

"University Commons is an important asset to Lindenwood University and its vision," Shonrock said. "This development, coupled with our ongoing campus improvements, makes the overall experience at Lindenwood like no other."

The negotiations to bring the new post office to University Commons forged a strong partnership between those involved, Faith said. St. Joseph Hospital—St. Charles served as the general contractor for the 21,500-square-foot, $5.2 million post office, located at West Clay Street and Boone Drive. In exchange for serving as contractor, SSM Health acquired the property of the former post office at 112 S. Fifth St.

"While this exchange agreement is mutually beneficial to the U.S. Postal Service and to SSM Health, it's St. Charles residents who stand to benefit the most," said Mike Bowers, president of St. Joseph Hospital—St. Charles. "Acquiring this property gives our hospital much needed room for growth."

Steve Ehlmann, St. Charles County executive, cited improved access as a key component for the county's participation in the project.

"Our office's primary focus has always been on improved commuter access throughout the region," Ehlmann said. "We invested in the West Clay extension because of the positive impacts it will provide everyone along the First Capitol corridor."

Diane Moore, Lindenwood's vice president for operations, said the businesses of University Commons make for a great opportunity to connect students with the St. Charles community.

"University Commons is not just a great thing for Lindenwood University, it's a great thing for this community," Moore said. "People from the new Cedarhurst retirement community are excited about having people who live in the senior living home to be able to engage with our students and partner with them in different ways."

This development, coupled with our ongoing campus improvements, makes the overall experience at Lindenwood like no other.

MICHAEL SHONROCK

2017 WAS A BIG YEAR FOR TECHNOLOGY AT LINDENWOOD

This year featured several technical advancements to Lindenwood University's network infrastructure, including several improvements for residents, plus an award for the new Lindenwood website.

In August 2016, the Lindenwood information technology team completed the Layer 3 Network Enhancement Project, which was initiated to improve network security and the general design of the Lindenwood network, making the network more efficient and easier to maintain. The team also rolled out improvements to the fiber optic, core, and wireless networks to support greater network efficiency and ease of use.

Information Technology worked closely with Residential Life and Charter Spectrum to design and install dedicated 100 MB-per-second Internet and Charter Spectrum cable service to each of the 436 student houses in Belleville and St Charles. This new service enables greater consistency in services provided to residential students while enabling Lindenwood to assess a communications fee to all students living in university housing.

Vice President for Information Technology T.J. Rains said that the projects were initiated as capital maintenance for the network and that the upgrades took one year to complete.

"Over the course of the past year, the Lindenwood IT team has worked diligently to redesign the Lindenwood network to deliver a relevant and high-quality network experience for the Lindenwood community," Rains said. "The new network design allows for greater access, flexibility, security and improved performance in supporting the educational experience at Lindenwood."

The redesigned Lindenwood University website, which launched Sept. 13, 2016, earned silver in the Website Features—Home Page category in the 11th annual W3 Awards.

According to the W3 website, entries are judged on the following factors: creativity, usability, navigation, functionality, visual design, and ease of use.

"We designed this website with the user in mind," said Rains. "We set out to create an intuitive and enjoyable experience for everybody—current students, prospective students, faculty, staff, and alumni. The fact that it looks good, too, is an added bonus."

The W³ Awards honor creative excellence on the World Wide Web and recognize the creative and marketing professionals behind award-winning sites, videos, and marketing programs. The W³ is sanctioned and judged by the Academy of Interactive and Visual Arts, an invitation-only body consisting of top-tier professionals from a "who's who" of acclaimed media, interactive, advertising, and marketing firms.

Lindenwood developed the website with Fastspot, a Baltimore-based company specializing in web design, web content creation, and marketing research and strategy.

Over the course of the past year, the Lindenwood IT team has worked diligently to redesign the Lindenwood network to deliver a relevant and high-quality network experience for the Lindenwood community.

STUDENTS MAKE THEIR MARK ON NATIONAL/INTERNATIONAL STAGE

Lindenwood University's students have a long-held tradition of distinguishing themselves in local and national competitions, whether it be in groups or as individuals. The following are a few notable examples from the past year.

In February 2017, a team of students from the Robert W. Plaster School of Business & Entrepreneurship was one of only six from Missouri and Illinois to take part in the Certified Financial Analysts Society of St. Louis competition at Edward D. Jones. The CFA Institute Research Challenge is a global competition that tests the equity research and valuation, investment report writing, and presentation skills of university students.

The university's DECA team won multiple first-place awards at the Missouri state DECA competition in March in restaurant and food service management, advertising, banking, and entrepreneurship. The team followed that up by winning multiple awards at the national competition in April in Anaheim.

A team of advertising students won the top prize at the St. Louis ADDY Awards, presented by the American Advertising Federation in the spring. The team went on to earn a Special Judges Citation Award at the National Student Advertising competition for its district, which covers a multi-state area. Advisor Krista Tucciarone also was recognized as advisor of the year for the district.

Lindenwood's student-run HD television station, LUTV, was notified in the spring that it would receive two NATAS Mid-America Regional Student Television Awards at the Mid-America Emmy Awards ceremony on Sept. 9 in St. Louis. Three students received the awards for a live football broadcast and for their sports program, Lion Pride Sports.

Three graduate students in the School of Health Sciences won competitive research grants from the National Strength and Conditioning Association Federation. Two of the students won two of five scholarships available in their category for their research into the effects of nutrition on training performance. The third won a GNC nutritional research grant.

Essi Virtanen, who is editor-in-chief of the Lindenwood Legacy student news magazine and its online component LindenLink for 2017, spent a portion of her summer working as an intern at CNN International in London. She worked primarily in television production and research and also had the opportunity to do some reporting and writing. A feature story she did on a Paralympic cyclist was published on Aug. 9.

JED STUGART TAKES OVER AS LIONS HEAD FOOTBALL COACH

The Lindenwood football team is playing its first season under new head coach Jed Stugart in 2017, and the program made huge strides as it looks to make its way up the MIAA standings.

Outside observers will notice the obvious improvements about the team, such as the better statistics and a more competitive team on Saturdays. Stugart is quick to point out though that the biggest upgrades are inside factors that will build the foundation for future success.

"We started hitting our goals during the season such as playing four competitive quarters each week, being able to overcome adversity, and believing in each other," said Stugart.

Stugart's top goal is to build a family atmosphere that will enable all of the players to excel both on and off the field.

I became familiar with Lindenwood while I was at MidAmerica Nazarene and recognized that they have the facilities and support to be a football powerhouse.

JED STUGART

Lindenwood Lions football coach

Stugart was announced as the new Lions head coach after seven seasons as the head coach at NCAA Division II University Sioux Falls, which advanced to the NAIA National Championship game in 2010 and began the transition to the NCAA, division II in 2011. At Sioux Falls, Stugart amassed a record of 65 and 17, including a 32-5 mark over the last three years, during which time the team established itself as one of the best in the country.

He was also head coach at former Lindenwood rival MidAmerica Nazarene from 2006 to 2008 and has coached at the NCAA Division I level for two teams, UNLV and Northern Colorado.

"I became familiar with Lindenwood while I was at MidAmerica Nazarene and recognized that they have the facilities and support to be a football powerhouse," said Stugart.

HENSLEY NAMED ONE OF NATION'S TOP 10 NCAA ATHLETES

Each year, approximately 460,000 athletes participate at the NCAA level. The NCAA Top 10 Award recognizes the 10 best NCAA student-athletes academically, athletically, and in the community. At the 2017 NCAA Honors Convention, Lindenwood's own Nicole Hensley was presented this prestigious award for the 2015-16 academic year.

"It was an incredible experience to see all of the accomplishments of the award winners, not just in their respective sports, but in the classroom and community as well," said Hensley. "Every single athlete had a unique impact on their school and community. I was so humbled to be included in such an ambitious group of individuals."

While Hensley was being humble about her accomplishments, she fit right in with the top athletes of the NCAA. In the classroom, she graduated from Lindenwood with a perfect 4.00 grade point average in exercise science, and she was the first three-time Academic All-American in Lindenwood history. On the ice, Hensley became the first women's collegiate goalie to make over 4,000 career saves at the NCAA Division I level.

Hensley was not only the first Lindenwood student-athlete to receive this award; she was also the first member of the College Hockey America conference to win the honor. Since the start of the award in 1973, only four other women's hockey players have received the honor.

Hensley will likely make more history this winter when she is expected to become the first Lindenwood athlete to compete in the Winter Olympics. Hensley was selected to the national team last May after serving as the primary goalie for Team USA when it won gold at the 2017 World Championships.

HARRIS AND DESIR

SEEK TO MAKE THEIR MARK IN NFL

Most collegiate student-athletes typically end their playing careers at the conclusion of their senior seasons. A few talented players, though, are able to extend their competitive sports life at the professional level. In 2017, two of those players sought to make a name for themselves and Lindenwood University in the biggest sports league in the United States, the National Football League.

Pierre Desir

Pierre Desir and Connor Harris were both in NFL training camps over the summer in 2017. Both players were on the bubble on the final cut day, but neither made the opening-day roster with their original teams. After being waived by the Seahawks, Desir was quickly picked up by the Indianapolis Colts. He made the active roster by week two and has even started. Harris, meanwhile, fell short of making the New York Jets roster. The Arizona Cardinals saw his potential and signed him to their practice squad early in the season.

Current Lindenwood Head Coach Jed Stugart sees value to both his program and the university when players get a chance in the NFL.

Connor Harris

“Players like Pierre and Connor have gotten a lot of media exposure, and that is a great promotion of not only the players but also our program and Lindenwood University,” said Stugart. “From a recruiting standpoint, it gives a lot of credibility when you tell high-level talents that they can come to Lindenwood and still get a chance to play at the professional level if they develop during their careers.”

Desir and Harris were both All-Americans at Lindenwood, and each was named National Defensive Player of the Year. Desir played his final season in 2013, and he made 13 interceptions and 93 tackles as a Lion. Harris graduated from Lindenwood in 2017 and finished his career as the NCAA's all-time leading tackler with 633 stops.

STUDENT LIFE SPORTS ADD A DOZEN TITLES IN 2016-17 SEASON

The 2016-17 season was one of the most successful ever for the Student Life Sports programs at Lindenwood, with 12 national team titles won.

Olympic weightlifting started in September with the National University Coed title and then duplicated the feat in April when the governing body of the sport moved the 2017 championship to earlier in the calendar year. Men's rugby won the USA Rugby Touch title in October, which was followed by the third straight Collegiate Water Polo Association Men's Division I title in November.

The calendar turned to 2017 and Lion Line joined the championship circle with a UDA College Dance Team title in Open Jazz in January. Several programs added to the national championship total in April, starting with the 14th consecutive ACUI Clay Target championship from shotgun sports. A week later, the Lionettes won the Jazz Division II at the NCA/NDA Collegiate Cheer and Dance Championship, and synchronized swimming captured the U.S. Senior Team High Point title. Later in the month, cheerleading hoisted a trophy as Large Coed Division II champions, and the roller hockey Gold Team won the National Collegiate Roller Hockey Association DIII crown. The final team championships were earned by men's and women's rugby as both captured USA Rugby Collegiate Sevens titles.

With the additional 12 titles for the season, the total number of Student Life Sports national team titles rose to 81 overall. They include 14 for shotgun sports, 10 for D1 and 13 D3 roller hockey, 4 for cheerleading, 7 for Lion Line, 1 for Lionettes, 3 for men's ice hockey, 4 for men's rugby, 1 for women's rugby, 6 for men's water polo, 2 for men's bowling, 2 for women's bowling, 2 for women's table tennis, 3 for Olympic weightlifting, and 4 for synchronized swimming (one collegiate/three U.S. National). Women's ice hockey won four before joining the NCAA, and men's volleyball won one title before joining the NCAA.

Planned GIVING

LEAVE YOUR LEGACY

Our staff can work with you and your financial and legal advisors to plan a gift that will leave a lasting legacy at Lindenwood. Some of the more popular planned gifts are discussed below.

Bequests

A will or trust is the easiest and most effective means to ensure that you provide for your family and that your assets will be distributed as you wish. A bequest will benefit Lindenwood upon your death, while allowing you to have use of your property during your life.

Appreciated Real Property

Donations of appreciated property can provide a generous contribution to Lindenwood and financial benefits for you.

Gifts of Securities

Transfers of stock and other appreciated securities to Lindenwood can give you a substantial tax savings. Donors may receive an income tax deduction equal to the fair market value of the stock on the date of the gift—thus reducing your taxable capital gains.

Charitable Gift Annuity

A charitable gift annuity frees up your assets in order to generate cash flow during your lifetime. You make an initial gift to Lindenwood, and then a set payment is paid during your lifetime or beginning at a designated time, such as retirement.

Charitable Remainder Trust

This is a managed and invested trust that provides you and/or other beneficiaries of your choosing with a stream of income for life or a period of years. If funded with appreciated property, a significant capital gains tax savings may result. A charitable remainder trust can yield substantial tax benefits.

Charitable Lead Trust

This is effectively the opposite of a charitable remainder trust. Instead of the donor receiving the income, Lindenwood would receive the income for a specified number of years. At the end of the trust, the remaining principal is returned to you or another person of your choosing. Charitable lead trusts can generate a substantial gift or estate tax savings, and, in some cases, you may receive a charitable income tax deduction.

Life Insurance

Either the donation of a fully or partially paid policy or the purchase of a new policy naming Lindenwood University as the beneficiary can lead to a substantial deduction for you and a generous gift to Lindenwood. Lindenwood can also be named as a beneficiary of a policy that you own.

Tax-Qualified Retirement Plan Gifts

With careful planning, gifts involving tax-qualified retirement plan assets, such as IRAs, can reduce your taxes and allow for a charitable gift. The university will be the effective steward of your generosity.

For information regarding any of these giving opportunities, please contact the Office of Development at (636)949-4908.

This information is not intended as tax, legal, or financial advice. Consult your own legal, tax, or financial professional for guidance. Gift annuities are not available in all states.

Ways OF GIVING

JOIN THE MISSION

Lindenwood University has made a difference in the lives of countless students throughout its 190-year history. Many of the opportunities received by students were made available through the generosity of alumni and friends who made gifts to the university. You are invited to have an impact on a student's life in a variety of ways. Lindenwood has gift programs and giving societies to help support students involved in the arts, education, sciences, communications, business, and other academic, athletic, and student life programs.

Ways To Give To Lindenwood

Outright Gifts:

- Cash
- Gifts of Stock and Other Securities
- Real Estate

Planned Gifts:

- Bequests
- Wills and Trusts
- Life Insurance
- Tax-Qualified Retirement Plan Gifts
- Gift Annuities
- Other Planned Gifts

Matching Gifts

Many employers make matching gifts that allow you to double your donation to the university.

Student Support Opportunities

You may directly impact Lindenwood students through the following giving opportunities.

Scholarships

Scholarship donations of any amount assist students needing help in earning their degrees. Every year, with gifts of $25,000 or more, generous donors endow, in perpetuity, scholarships for students with exceptional merit or with financial need.

Honors Awards

Honors award naming starts with gifts of $10,000. Donors may attend the annual Honors Award Convocation with the student recipients.

Support OPPORTUNITIES

UNIVERSITY SUPPORT OPPORTUNITIES

YOU MAY PARTICIPATE IN GIVING OPPORTUNITIES THAT DIRECTLY HELP ADVANCE THE MISSION OF LINDENWOOD.

Annual Funds

Gifts to the annual fund help cover the operating costs of the university, so that tuition and room and board can be kept affordable for the students. These gifts are unrestricted, which means that they are available to be used where the need is the greatest.

Capital Projects

Gifts can be designated for various capital campaigns and projects currently in progress at a variety of locations on both campuses. Naming opportunities are available to recognize contributions.

Endowed Gifts

You may establish or contribute to an endowed fund and create a lasting legacy. Income from an endowed gift provides ongoing support for the donor's chosen priority in perpetuity.

- Unrestricted
- Fellowship
- Research
- Scholarships
- Professorships
- Facilities Maintenance

The LU Legends

Become a legend by leaving a lasting impression at one of many locations on campus.

- Brick Paver Stones
- Young Hall Auditorium Seats
- Athletic Lockers
- Plant A Tree
- Professorships

The President's Circle

The President's Circle is a giving society whose members contribute cumulative gifts of at least $1,000 annually.

The Lions' Reserve Fund

Thousands of students at public and private colleges across the country are falling further behind in their higher education financial commitments. For a number of reasons, their sources of funding dry up before making it to graduation. Lindenwood University has created the Lions' Reserve Fund to provide a bridge for students to get across the finish line and earn their degrees. This fund will provide students the additional financial support needed to complete the final part of their academic journey.
