

ROSS GELLER

123-456-7890 | ross.gellar@gmail.com | linkedin.com/in/rossgellar

SKILLS

- Research
- Communication
- Museum Curation
- Analytical
- Curriculum Development
- Public Speaking

PROFESSIONAL EXPERIENCE

Professor August 2017 - Present

New York University | New York City, NY

- Guide students in using technology to support research
- Foster students' commitment to lifelong learning by connecting coursework to broader themes, important moments in history, and current events
- Collaborated with admissions on establishing prerequisites for undergraduate and graduate students

Curator of Paleozoic History July 2009 - Present

New York Museum of Prehistory History | New York City, NY

- Handle artifacts including fossils of dinosaurs, human remains, and plant life
- Schedule and coordinate community events with over 50+ patrons to support exhibits
- Assist in development and maintenance of user-friendly website with over 150+ digital interactions each day
- Collaborate with museum staff to create engaging exhibits for over 5,000 visitors each week
- Supervise and manager team of 5 employees to oversee daily maintenance of exhibits

EDUCATION

Doctorate of Philosophy in Paleontology May 2008

Columbia University | New York City, NY

- Dissertation : Life of the Paleozoic Era, Plants, Humans, and Modern Day Monsters
- 4.0 GPA

Study Abroad Doctoral Research August 2006 – May 2006

Shanghai Jiao Tong University | Shanghai, China

- Assisted on paleontological dig to find artifacts related to Mesozoic era tools

Master of Arts in Geology May 2004

Columbia University | New York City, NY

Bachelor of Arts in History May 2002

Columbia University | New York City, NY